

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements
1 Introduction.....	1
2 Color Me Beautiful: Naturalism/Naturalization in Frank Norris's The Octopus	49
3 Of Chinese Cooks and Invisible Hands: Reading Frank Norris's The Octopus through Popular Culture	71
4 The Red Badge of Irishness: Reading Stephen Crane's Maggie through the Aesthetics of Naturalism	99
5 Contagious Laundrymen and Nineteenth-Century Discourses of Hygiene: Labor Competition and Sanitary Narratives	135
6 Coloring Capitalism Green: Upton Sinclair's The Jungle	155
7 Color-Coding the City in Upton Sinclair's The Jungle	193
8 Of German Midwives and French Bonnets: Ethnicizing Medical History in The Jungle	221
9 Marry Me White: Capitalist Drive as Superior Masculinity in Frank Norris's The Pit	237
10 The History of Naturalism as Dental History: Frank Norris's McTeague	287

11	Bohemian Interiors: From the Living Room into the Kitchen in My Ántonia	325
12	Christianity of a Different Color: Pagan Rituals in My Ántonia	363
13	Race and Gender in Hollywood Film: Rudolph Valentino’s White Ambivalence in The Sheik	397
14	German Naturalism – A Contradiction in Terms? The “Case” of Theodore Dreiser.....	415
15	Conclusion	457
	Works Cited.....	477